

Cancer cause?

From Steve Dalton

I was fascinated by the idea that a fever might help defeat cancer (4 January, p 26). Could the incidence of cancer in the 20th century be, in part, a result of fewer fever-inducing pathogens in our environment and the greater availability and use of fever-suppressing drugs?

Chipstead, Kent, UK